

Professional Associations

In Australia and New Zealand we have an voluntary industry association, the 'Australasian Promotional Products Association.

Promotion Products has been a member for 22 years – right from our inception.

We are also proud members of the world's foremost association for promotional merchandise professionals. This association gives us insights into world-wide trends.